Instructions For Filling Out This Questionnaire

When you start answering the questions in the questionnaire and going from one section to another, if a section or question does not apply to you, skip it and move on to the next section or question. Try to avoid getting in a rush, or guesstimating.

Avoid entering round numbers, round numbers are a big red flag, the IRS expects exact numbers.

Home office deduction

To be used for business use of your home in connection with 1099 non-employee trade or business. *PLEASE READ AND UNDERSTAND BEFORE TAKING THIS DEDUCTION*

To qualify for a home office deduction, you must use part of your home Exclusively and Regularly as your principal place of business for your trade or business. The area used for business can be a room or other separately identifiable space. The space does not need to be marked off by a permanent partition, but it MUST be used for 100% business use only.

To qualify to deduct expenses for business use of your home, you must meet one of the following 4 tests:

1. Exclusively and regularly as your principal place of business for any trade or business.

It does not meet the qualification if you use it for business use part of the time and personnel use the rest of the time. The space MUST be used exclusively for 100% business use only.

2. Exclusively and regularly as a place where you meet with patients, clients, or customers in your trade or business.

If you meet or deal with patients, clients, or customers in your home in the normal course of your business, even though you also carry on business at another location, you can deduct your expenses for the part of your home used exclusively and regularly for business if you meet both the following tests.

- You physically meet with patients, clients, or customers on your premises.
- Their use of your home is substantial and integral to the conduct of your business.

Using your home for occasional meetings and telephone calls will not qualify you to deduct expenses for the business use of your home. The part of your home you use exclusively and regularly to meet patients, clients, or customers does not have to be your principal place of business.

3. On a regular basis for certain storage use of inventory or product samples.

You sell products at wholesale or retail as your trade or business, You keep the inventory or product samples in your home for use in your trade or business, You use the storage space on a regular basis.

4. As a daycare facility

If you operate a licensed daycare facility, the tax rules state that as long as a room is used regularly for a daycare business, it need not be used exclusively.

You have two options: Simplified method, or the Actual expense method. You will need to figure the percentage of your home used for business for both methods.

- 1. The simplified method: is an alternative to the calculation, allocation, and substantiation of actual expenses. In most cases, you will figure your deduction by multiplying $5, the prescribed rate, by the area of your home used for a qualified business use. The area you use to figure your deduction is limited to 300 square feet.
- 2. Actual expense method: If you do not elect to use the simplified method, you will figure your deduction using your actual expenses.
